

Contributors . . .

Margret Andersen, Ph.D., is Chairman of the Department of Languages, University of Guelph and editor of Mother Was Not a Person (Black Rose Books, 1972).

Mary Bews is an Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Education, McGill.

Theodore Brameld, distinguished educational philosopher and spokesman for Educational Reconstructionism, is at present Visiting Professor, Herbert H. Lehman College of the City University of New York.

Trevor Burrige, who has his Ph.D. in History from McGill, is a former member of the Faculty of Education. He is author of What Happened in Education: An Introduction to Western Educational History and now teaches in the Humanities Department at Vanier College, Montreal.

Jeffrey Derevensky is a lecturer in the Department of Educational Psychology and Sociology, McGill.

Patricia Daine is a graduate student (Sociology of Education) in the Department of Educational Foundations, University of Alberta.

Lois Foster is a doctoral candidate in Sociology of Education at the University of Alberta.

O. M. Fuller and his colleagues formed the staff of the Chemical Engineering Laboratory, McGill Faculty of Engineering in 1972-73. Roland Clift, Ray Allen, Dahya Bhaga, Robert Farber, David Fung and Richard Munz served as experiment controllers; Pali Oberoi was the laboratory technician; and Maynard Fuller was the laboratory manager.

Winston Gereluk, a Ph.D. student in the Department of Educational Foundations at the University of Alberta, teaches a course on "Vital Issues in Education."

Margaret Gillett is Professor of Education at McGill and Editor of this Journal.

Maxine Greene, author of Existential Encounters for Teachers, The Public School and the Private Vision: A Search for America in Education and Literature, and Teacher as Stranger: Educational Philosophy for the Modern Age, is Professor of Philosophy and Education at Teachers College, Columbia University.

. . . Contributors

Wayne Hall is Dean of Education, McGill University.

Brian Hendley, a regular contributor to this Journal, is Associate Professor in the Department of Philosophy, University of Waterloo and has recently been appointed Associate Dean of Arts (Special Programmes).

W. F. Hitschfeld is Dean of Graduate Studies and Research, McGill.

Sheryl Morgan is a Supervisor in Elementary Education at the University of San Francisco, and doctoral student in the School of Education, University of California, Berkeley.

Mary Nixon is a doctoral student in the Department of Educational Administration, University of Alberta.

David C. Smith is Associate Professor of Education at McGill and Chairman of the Department of Education in Social Sciences.

Herbert B. Wilson, one of the first doctoral graduates of the Stanford International Development Education Center, is now Director of the University of Arizona College of Education Multicultural Education Center. Dr. Wilson spent a number of years as an educational administrator in the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands and has done research on problems of cross-cultural communication in Mexico and Europe.