

CONTRIBUTORS

Reuben B. Frost is Director Emeritus of the Division of Physical Education in Springfield College, Mass. and past president of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. His most recent book is Physical Education: Foundations, Practices and Principles.

Vassilis Klissouras, Professor in the Department of Physical Education and Associate Professor of Physiology at McGill, has taught exercise physiology and done twin research in several European and Asian universities.

Daniel Marisi is an Associate Professor in the Department of Physical Education at McGill in the area of psychology of motor performance.

David L. Montgomery is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Physical Education, McGill.

Marion North, Head of the Dance Department at Goldsmiths' College, University of London, and Director of Laban Art of Movement Centre, has written extensively on Movement Education.

Cleanthis Paleologos, Vice Dean of the International Olympic Academy and Director Emeritus of the National School of Physical Education in Athens, Greece, is an historian of physical education.

Douglas Riley is Associate Professor in the Department of Physical Education at McGill in the area of curriculum development.

Hans Selye, the father of the "Stress Syndrome" concept, is the Director of the Institut de Médecine et de Chirurgie Expérimentales at the Université de Montréal. His most recent book is Stress Without Distress.

A. E. Wall is Assistant Professor in the Department of Physical Education at McGill with an interest in the motor performance of the exceptional child.

Robert Wilkinson, Professor and Chairman in the Department of Physical Education at McGill, has done research on motivation as it effects physical performance and has studied the organization of Physical Education in France and the Soviet Union.

mcgill Journal of education

Coming:

FALL 1976

- Special Issue:
Social Studies

SPRING 1977

- Educational Futures