

Deaths of Review Board Members

Two of the review board members of this journal have died in the past year. Ms. Lydia Raubenheimer, of Braamfontein, South Africa, died early in this year (1993). She was a former director of the National Research Institute, of South Africa. Mr. Garth Boomer, of South Australia, died on July 16, 1993, after a long illness. Among his many accomplishments in the field of education, he is probably best known in Canada for his last publication, Negotiating the Curriculum.

Ms. Raubenheimer and Mr. Boomer made superb contributions to this journal through their thorough and insightful reviews of manuscripts sent to them.
